What's new in Elden Ring:

See you in the true lands between!!

I missed this last year. It will now be a part of the game. A post from Nexon regarding Palladion:

"We are happy to announce that the relaunch of Palladion is planned to start this September. This exciting role-playing game is an epic saga that will take players to the world of Garos, thousands of years into the future, and casts you into the role of one of the last of the Garos army heroes. Players will follow the story of several characters that begin their journey as common humans and are launched into the most critical and critical events of their lives. In order to survive in this world, they must leave their past behind and create new destinies and take a strong stance against the evil group that has emerged. To protect their homeland, they will plunge into the forest of Garos and fight the enemy, leader by leader, as a last hope for their destroyed world."

It's looking pretty solid. I'm looking forward to it. Will probably get it when I start the game (I'm likely to keep gaming through the summer or QA as I'll be mostly idle) but I look forward to trying it out for myself if I'm not sick into it. Good to get a look at this game.

OVERLORD MMORPG V2.1 FIXED

My original MMO patch, MMOG, was out for this game as an update. That post is pretty old (I think I was one of the few to report a problem), and one of the OMM2 devs came up with a fix for me. &nbsp;

Trump Insists He's Just the 'Unconventional' Guy and Ready to Fight the Media Trump Insists He's Just the 'Unconventional' Guy and Ready to Fight the Media by Gage Skidmore For four years, Donald Trump has been under siege, the object of derision and mockery for every, well, asperity the Democrats and their supporters could muster. When he spoke last week at the Conservative Political Action Conference (CPAC), it was hard to keep up. He turned his wrath back on the authoritarians who held him down in the GOP primaries, naming the pro-Trump crowd by name: "Gang of Eight," Paul Ryan, Mitch McConnell, Jeb Bush, and "today's failed politicians," all of whom were discredited, if not destroyed, by the election of Donald J. Trump. Trump defined his mission as political suicide. "I'm not here to make friends," he said, "or make life easy for the press." To that end, he embarked on the hare-brained idea of banning reporters and photographers from the CPAC stage, which drew some criticism from conservative quarters for overlooking the fact that the gathering's supporters were forbidden from recording his speech. "You're going to have to stay, because of security and, you know, safety and everything," Trump told his mob. "You'll love it, folks. It's going to be exciting. I'm going to be very unconventional, folks." He was an hour late, and delivered his remarks with contorted body language as he struggled to maintain his concentration on the audience. He lost his train of thought several times, and sounded rambling, needling the audience members and politicians he named, and bristling when they turned to jeer him. But it seemed as if he had a prepared text, and a message. He repeated his theme that the media has "rigged the system" against him. "You, the press, have a total disgrace," he said. "You are worse than the crooked politicians. Because at least when the crooked politicians make mistakes, they admit them, they're not afraid to say 'I'm sorry.' The press is so dishonest." Trump cast the media in the company of crooked politicians, and in such a crowd as CPAC, that might have sounded like a barb aimed at Republicans and conservatives. But there was no mistaking his true target: liberal opponents and media
