string cannot be called from another class? I'm currently experimenting with a Connect4 Game in C++. I've written the game part and now I've managed to store the board and the move as class variables, but when I want to call it from another class, I get an error:

mainwindow.cpp: In constructor
  'MainWindow::MainWindow()': mainwindow.cpp:10:31: error: 'char'
  was not declared in this scope mainwindow.cpp: In member function
  'bool Move()': mainwindow.cpp:44:17:
error: no matching function for call to 'MainWindow::GetBoard()' It seems to me, that when I'm compiling the code, I'm missing the dependencies, but from where? This is the code of the class I want to use it: class Board {

private: char *board, *move; public:
char *GetBoard() { return board; } char *GetMove() { return move; } void SaveBoard(const char *filename)
